

Resource A: About the Six Book Challenge

How to join in

The Six Book Challenge invites you to pick six reads and record them in a diary to get a certificate. Sign up now and create a profile.

You may be taking part already through your library, college or workplace – in which case you will already have a reading diary. If not, please contact us and say where you're based so that we can try to link you up with someone running the Six Book Challenge near you and you can get a reading diary through them. Once you've completed the challenge you can enter a national prize draw. Last year, prizes included Kobo eReaders and a trip to London.

You can read anything you like: newspapers, poems, plays, websites, books and more.

Once you've created a profile you'll be able to do lots of things including sharing reviews and finding new things to read. Follow the links below to see more.

Find a read

Find a read
I know what I want

There are currently 337 titles.

You can change your search terms and then click the 'Show results' button when you're ready.

Type of read

Reading level

Show results

Select

- True lives
- Fiction
- History [philosophy, religion]
- Factual
- Health, family and lifestyle
- Sport and leisure
- Crime and thriller

Setting up and running The Reading Agency's Six Book Challenge

There are currently 337 titles.

You can change your search terms and then click the 'Show results' button when you're ready.

Type of read

Reading level

I'm starting out

I want something very short

I need lots of practice

I'm getting more confident

I'll give anything a try

Show results

Chat

Have started the 6 Book Challenge today and i'm looking forward to it. Will let you know how I get on.

Posted by.
Andrew

How do I get a reading diary for the six book reading challenge, as I am not doing it through an organisation

Posted by.
Jill

hello,I am a Chinese visiting scholar in london,I just sign up the programme,any one can share some easy nice book which can help me better understand culture of this city?

Posted by.
binbin

Setting up and running The Reading Agency's Six Book Challenge

hey , i signed up now plz suggest me some books like The Hobbit .

Posted by.
arjun

For people starting out just read short stories to begin with the books getting harder the more confident you become with reading

Posted by.
Charlene

First book to read in my 6 book challenge is a classic. "The Hound of the Baskervilles" Looking forward to completing it at telling you all how it went.

Posted by.
Andrew